

A small global q/context gate is more stable than drug-specific gating

The three hybrids have the same mean

Mean score alone cannot choose the gate.

Only the global cross-fit improves every fold

Selected q weights: 0.6, 0.6, 0.7; context receives the remainder.

Other-fold labels fit each gate; own-fold labels are excluded. Adaptive-study diagnostic, not independent confirmation.